

I would like to see Indiana's do-not-call list stay as it is. It has made our "family time" much more pleasant and peaceful as a home should be. The telemarketers were so rude, we resorted to having the answering machine screen all of our calls. We would get calls starting at 8am and at 9pm. Some days we would get a phone call every hour on the hour. Some weeks the phone would ring at exactly the same time every day (always at dinner.) These people do not take no for an answer. I have even hung up on one, only to have her call right back. This is an invasion of our privacy, and I think bordering on harrassment. It seems like the phone was always waking up my baby, or every time that he had a nap the phone would ring and wake him up. Our house has been so much more peaceful since we signed up for the do-not-call list. Please don't change it.
